

PRETTY HYMN WRITTEN ON VESSEL

ad, kindly light, amid the encircling gloom, Lead thou me on,
The night is dark, and I am far from home;
Lead thou me on,
Keep thou my feet; I do not ask to see A distant scene; one step enough for me.

was not ever thus, nor prayed that thou Should'st lead me on;
I loved to choose and see my path;
but now,
Lead thou me on!
O day of tears, and, in spite of de rule my will. Remember not past years!

long thy power hath blessed me, sure it still Will lead me on.
The moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent till
The night is gone,
And with the morn those angel faces smile,
Which I have loved long since, and lost awhile!

—John H. Newman.

Cardinal Newman had been very ill Leonforte, Sicily, of malarial fever.
Society to return to England and resume his work there also worried His mental depression was so found that he frequently burst in-tears. His servant thought him death, and begged for his last wishes. These were given, but Newman himself did not think he was going to die then. Finally he was able to secure transportation on an English boat bound for France, but winds fell off and the vessel was delayed for a full week in the waters of Bonifacio, between Corsica and Sardinia. This was in June, 1890.
Here it was, and under these conditions, that "Lead Kindly Light" was written. The whole time of the cardinal's passage, says Newman, was summed in the preparation of these verses. So, while the idea was an inspiration, its literary frame work was a task of careful labor. The simplicity of its thought, the sweetness and delicacy of expression, the simplicity of the thought, the completeness of faith and its sincerity, seem to reflect qualities of the author's moral, mental and physical state at that time. Dr.
Newman wrote a great deal, but this is the most famous of all his productions. One can almost see behind the lines a living portrait of the author himself.

John Henry Newman was a native London, born February 21, 1801.
His father was a banker whose deep religious convictions were disclosed in

Grand Opera Coming.

Al. H. Hagen, business manager of the train of his son, who from a child was brought up read in the Bible, and to read it in such a way that this reading was "a great delight," as he himself says. After the finish of his university course in Oxford, where he was graduated from Trinity College, at the age of 19, in 1820 he was engaged in educational work until 1828, when there began an intimacy between himself and Richard Hurrell Froude, of which the outcome was a remarkable religious movement for better things in the English church.

About this time Newman visited the continent, and during this visit, say his biographers, he became ultimately and firmly settled in his belief in the policy and practice of the Roman Catholic church, toward which he had previously manifested for some years a marked tendency. But it was not until October, 1845, that he finally and formally entered that church, which promptly and properly recognized and honored him. His gradual and steady promotion from one dignity to another culminated in 1879 in the red hat of the cardinal, thus worthily crowning the sunset years of his long and useful life. He passed away August 11, 1890. Of his many other writings which have attracted notice the reader may like to have his attention directed to "The Dream of Gerontius," as a composition which is accounted remarkable by all critics.

An aggressive mentality sometimes leads ministers and theologians, during their controversies, to unconsciously overstep the bounds of law, as Dr.
Newman, himself found he had done in 1852, when he was fined $500 for a libel on Dr. Achilli.

Nature's Gift from the Sunny South

Cottolene Is a Food Product of Absolute Purity

In recent years there has been a wave of reform in the making and inspection of food products. National and State Pure Food Laws have been passed, regulating their manufacture, to insure the customer getting pure, healthful food.

Any product which contains hog fat is subject to the taint or possibility of disease germs. Lard is made from hog-fat—it may be pure, and it may not. At any rate, it is best indigestible, and will raise havoc with any but the hardest stomach.

Cottolene is a vegetable product, which is far superior to lard for all shortening and cooking purposes. After the cotton seed oil has been refined through purifying processes of our own, it is made neutral and odorless, and an absolutely pure and healthful fat is the result.

Cottolene is a product of nature and is bound to be wholesome. It is the one dependable, healthful product for frying and shortening, and carefully inspected and made to conform with all pure food laws.

COTTOLENE is Guaranteed Your grocer is hereby authorized to refund your money in case you are not pleased, after having given Cottolene a fair test.

Never Sold in Bulk Cottolene is packed in pails with an air-tight top to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome, and prevent it from catching dust and absorbing disagreeable odors, such as fish, oil, etc.
